

brand guidelines

core messaging

Empowerment, growth, innovation, opportunity, acceleration, future-thinking.

tone

Inspirational, motivating, action-oriented. The language should always convey a sense of momentum and progress. The language should be humble and collaborative, yet aspirational and emphasizing impact, growth, and future potential.

voice

Professional but approachable, with a sense of excitement and possibility. The message should feel like an invitation to a community of forward-thinkers and doers.

the^delta

the^delta reflects the brand's mission to provide a platform for entrepreneurs and the social ecosystem to drive transformative change. It symbolizes the power of evolution, growth, and meaningful shifts—empowering individuals with the knowledge, resources, and connections needed to create lasting impact. By offering a space to learn, collaborate, and build networks, the^delta represents both the catalyst and the community support required to turn passion into purpose. It champions social innovation and inspires action that created a fertile ground for measurable and enduring change.

disclaimers

- All logos to follow same guidelines as primary logo (the minimum whitespace and fixed proportions)
- We should not use program specific logos interchangeably with Caret (^).
- Collaterals with partner logos to be made with the partner's logo and branding specifications followed carefully + the closest logo from the ^delta.
- the ^delta is how the organisation's name is always written in text. Including Caret (^).

The main color palette blends strength, urgency, balance, and clarity. #6e7475 (muted slate) anchors the brand with a sense of stability and seriousness, while #b21010 (delta red) signals passion, action, and transformative energy. #f4c024 and #363d3f adds a modern, thoughtful tone, and #f0f0f0 (light grey) offers clarity and openness of a blank canvas, allowing ideas and innovation to shine through.

The color #f4c024 should be utilized in no more than 10% of any creative work.

The range of primary colors, combined with #f4c024 (Vivid Yellow) can be used in certain creatives. This spectrum can extend beyond the common colors, showcasing various hues. Collaterals without images should stick to the main brand colours. If a larger range of colours is needed (for eg: ppts), the following colours can be used.

avenir bold

For headings (Bold and Lower Case)

Avenir light

For text body (Light and sentence case)

Argent

For important words (Sentence case and italics | regular for title and light for sentence)

the^delta's typography reflects clarity, modernity, and purpose. Avenir Bold (used in lowercase for headings and titles) commands attention with a clean, contemporary look, while Avenir Light (in sentence case) offers readability and sophistication for body text and subtitles. Argent Italics adds a subtle contrast for emphasis, bringing warmth and elegance to highlighted words.

disclaimers

- US vs UK spellings
- We use UK spellings in our text. Correct spellings include: Centre, organisation, etc

Exception:

- Program - As this is the spelling we have followed across collaterals and this spelling is even present in some program names and descriptions.

Images intended for creative purposes should primarily feature around 60% of brand colors, with the remaining highlights coming from a secondary color palette. It's important that these images are not overly colorful. If a colored image of a person cannot be adjusted, it should be presented in black and white. Illustrations and vectors should be toned, in black and white, or red. Avoid using colorful, playful illustrations; instead, prioritize line drawings and silhouettes.

Social media posts should maintain a minimalist approach, featuring the brand logo prominently in the top right corner. Images ought to adhere to a primary color scheme for at least 60% of their content. Both primary and secondary fonts can be utilized for the text, and the size of the words and fonts should be determined based on specific needs.
